

Platon Primary School

Platon Primary School began as a community school in 1998 and is located in a rural community on top of a remote beautiful mountain. The rural population of Platon has a strong community spirit and has developed a parent committee who is responsible for constructing the school each year (all out of coconut branches). There is a strong sense of pride in the community and a dedication to provide their children with a quality education. Even under coconut branches, Platon's 120 students and 9 professors work extremely hard each year to reach high pass rates on the national education exam.
